Empower your office

The modern office user is equipped with gadgets, better informed and always connected. Battery-powered devices have become an important factor in working life, and by integrating wireless charging devices, office furniture can become your new power source.

Your employees or visitors can stay connected at all times without having to worry about carrying their own cable or adapter. Say goodbye to cables and say hello to universal power supplies, clean desks and innovation in your office environment.

Power up the workday

Imagine if the power supply was available to everyone in the office in an universal and easy-to-use way. Easily accessible at every desk, in every meeting room and in every acoustic booth, without clunky cables and power boxes. Integrated wireless charging in offices leads to:

- Easy to use power supplies at all types of workstations (Universal)
- Device charging for multiple devices
- Cleaner desks throughout the office
- Additional convenience for office users: supporting the “war for talent”
- No travel adapters required for international users
